On view March 17 to May 23, 2020

Washington, DC — The Kreeger Museum presents Objects from the Studio: The Sculptor's Process, opening March 17, 2020. This exhibition brings together models and sketches based on select works in the Sculpture Garden by Kendall Buster, Richard Deutsch, John L. Dreyfuss, Carol Brown Goldberg, Dalya Luttwak, and Foon Sham, and is organized by Danielle O'Steen, Curator at The Kreeger Museum.

"Models and maquettes emerge from the most personal moment of a sculptor's process," says O'Steen. "They are the first attempts for an artist who is exploring an idea, toying with form, and experimenting with different materials. In a sense, they represent raw expression."

Objects from the Studio includes works in a wide range of materials, such as bronze, wood, wax, and acrylic, which have not previously been shared with the public. The exhibition offers insight into how outdoor artworks are made, while highlighting the Museum's expansive Sculpture Garden.

The Sculpture Garden is located on five and a half acres and is open year-round. A natural extension of the Museum's exhibition space, the Sculpture Garden features works by Kendall Buster, Emilie Brzezinski, Joan Danziger, Richard Deutsch, John L. Dreyfuss, Carol Brown Goldberg, Rainer Lagemann, Dalya Luttwak, Sandra Muss, George Rickey, Foon Sham, and Lucien Wercollier. The Kreeger Museum Sculpture Terrace also includes works by Jean Arp, Aristide Maillol, Jacques Lipchitz, Henry Moore, Isamu Noguchi, and Francesco Somaini.
